Music from the golden years of radio

Summer edition

Highlights from the summer edition now being sent to all members

Dead Air

Background to the recent technical problems at the station which caused the signal on the FM band to shut down. We report on the efforts of our techs to locate and rectify what can be attributed to 'natural causes'.

Our techs eventually celebrated sorting out a multitude of problems which were caused by what the insurance industry calls an 'Act of God'

Getting out and about

Part of our station's charter is to engage with the community – particularly with the seniors demographic.

Increased priority is being given to this important area of our operations in recent months with our Outside Broadcast team going into overdrive.

Feedback

The results from the recent national listener survey of community radio stations are now available to members. The data provides useful information to our management committee when considering what listeners want in future programmes.

Also feedback from our interstate and overseas listeners tuning in to our website provides enlightening reading. The committee thrive on listeners' feedback and encourage them to keep it coming,

Radiothon

The annual Radiothon: This again proved to be a successful event, raising a considerable amount to support future operations at the station, thanks to the army of volunteers who produced and presented the programmes during the week, those who answered the phone calls, logged the donations and wrote out and posted the receipts. Donors to this and future years' appeals will now be able to claim any amount of $5 and over off their next annual taxation return.

The new team

Office-bearers for the following year were elected at the 2018 Annual General Meeting. Details in this edition.

Our Station Spy

is hot on the trail of a person or persons who are causing considerable discomfort and inconvenience to our breakfast session producers and presenters. This has not gone un-noticed by our regular early morning listeners, some of whom have phoned the station and enquired what was wrong. Enquiries to date have revealed the situation is being caused by anti-social action being taken during the wee small hours with evidence being uncovered by those arriving for the breakfast shift. Several theories have been advanced. The Station Spy is now hot on the trail. Further reports on developments will be featured in future editions.
